

Copyright and Liability Statements and Online Library Access Agreement

Introduction

At all times, the Shropshire Archaeological & Historical Society (SAHS) seeks to protect the intellectual property rights and copyright of the originators of material where that can reasonably be achieved. It is the responsibility of users to acknowledge and comply with the copyright conditions that may be imposed.

Copyright Statement

All material on this web-site is protected by copyright. Specific copyright holders are identified in the appropriate material. All rights reserved.

A non-exclusive, non-transferable licence is hereby granted to those using or reproducing, in whole or in part, the material for valid not-for-profit teaching and research purposes, providing the copyright owners are acknowledged. The SAHS should be cited as the source of the material from this web-site. Anyone wishing to use the material for any other purpose must contact the SAHS / copyright holder to seek permission.

Liability Statement

The SAHS library is a catalogue of publications, including but not limited to the Society's past "Transactions" and Newsletters, and as such, the maintainers of the catalogue explicitly disclaim to the extent permitted by law any responsibility for the accuracy, content, or availability of information located through use of the catalogue, or for any damage incurred owing to use of the information contained therein.

Information located through use of the catalogue may be subject to specific use constraints, details of which will be made accessible to potential users by the catalogue. It is the responsibility of potential and actual users to be aware of such constraints and to abide by them.

By making use of material on this web-site, including the contents of the catalogue, you accept these copyright and disclaimer provisions.

Online Access Agreement

Introduction

The SAHS levies no charge to use its library when used according to the terms detailed below. However, by accepting the terms of the Access Agreement all users are entering into a legally binding agreement.

It is the aim of the SAHS to provide access to the Society's past "Transactions", Newsletters, and other publications at no cost to end users to help them to understand the archaeology and history of Shropshire. This aim can only be achieved if the organisations and individuals which supply data to those publications can be assured that their own rights are protected. Consequently, use of the online library is covered by a variety of legal instruments to protect us, our users, and those who supply data to us.

The Access Agreement asks that users be fair and reasonable in their use of the material supplied through the SAHS library. We ask that you acknowledge the source and copyright of the material you use, that you tell us of any errors you find in it, and that if you undertake any work based substantially upon it, that you tell us about it and send us a copy of any subsequent publication. The material must not be sold or supplied to a third party.

The material should only be used for teaching, learning, and research purposes, except by prior agreement. By teaching, we mean directed teaching undertaken with a designated tutor in a formal setting. By learning we mean self-directed study, whether or not attached to an educational institution, including the educational activities undertaken in museums, libraries and cognate institutions. By research we mean any work undertaken for the advancement of, and/or understanding of, archaeology and history. Such work may be commercially sponsored or it may be funded by academic bodies or learned societies, or it may be unsupported: but it is a condition of use that the results are placed in the public domain and are made freely available for others to use according to the normal principles of professional and academic practice.

Terms

By using the SAHS online library you are bound by the following Terms & Conditions. Please read them carefully.

I have read and I understand the following statement:

All material supplied via SAHS is protected by copyright and other intellectual property rights, and duplication or sale of all or part of any of the Collections is not permitted, except that material may be duplicated by me for my research use or educational purposes in electronic or print form. I must obtain permission for any other use. Electronic or print copies may not be offered, whether for sale or otherwise, to any third party who is not a user as defined above.

I further agree:

To acknowledge, in any publication, whether printed, electronic or broadcast, based wholly or in part on the material in the library, the original depositors or the SAHS.

To declare, in any publication, whether printed, electronic or broadcast, based wholly or in part on the material in the library, that those who carried out the original collection of the data bear no responsibility for the further analysis or interpretation of it.

- To notify the SAHS of any errors discovered in the library.
- To accept that SAHS and the copyright holder bear no legal responsibility for the accuracy or comprehensiveness of the material, and that SAHS and the copyright holder accept no liability for indirect, consequential, or incidental, damages or losses arising from use of the material, or from the unavailability of, or break in access to, the service, for whatever reason.

March 2020